NEW YORK, Nov. 1 .- American manufacturing interests, are for the promise prompt delivery of goods American foreign trade at a time when it is enjoying unprecedented opportunities, says a copyrighted dispatch from London to The Tribune. The present embarrassment to American industry comes at a time when the British industrial world is slowly regaining a more normal scale of output, and, needless to say, there are certain manufacturing interests here who are not ill pleased at the prospect of American production being hampered at this juncture. American trade experts here pressed the opinion to the Sun cortoday that, although Europe is compelled to buy largely in America to obtain what it wants, that this situation will not last in-
